The Times' Daily Short Story.

The Savior of a City

(Original.)

Among the early followers of William Penn to this country was a young couple who called themselves Wehrensteins. They showed a great difference in refinement from the other settlers, the wife especially indicating by her manner and a certain fineness of physical texture that she had come from the better classes. That they were German was indicated by their name.

That was a period when Europe was in continual warfare, the main causes being the issues between the two religious divisions, Catholics and Protestants. In one of these wars the capital of one of the principal German states was invested by the emperor, who represented the Catholic party. The burghers awaited the enemy's attack behind their breastworks, knowing that their existence both as individuals and as a people depended on their successful defense, for in those days it was not uncommon for capturing a city to put the inhabitants to the sword.

As soon as the advancing force came within striking distance the besieged poured a terrible fire in their faces, but without the effect of arresting their onward march. Moving on to the very ramparts, they carried them at the point of their pikes. The leader of the defenders was killed, and all seemed lost when a young officer, grasping a flag that lay on the ground beside the dead body of the man who had borne it and raising it aloft, cried out to his comrades to meet death like men, since they must die, and not wait to be butchered. The effect was magical. Forming as best they could about their new leader, they dashed forward with the fury of despair. The enemy, who were climbing over the breastworks, were checked, then recoiling gave way and clambered back over the walls and fled down the declivity.

The city was saved. But there was a damper on the rejoicings. The young officer who had turned the tide, who had given the people their lives, had fallen desperately wounded. He was put on a stretcher and carried to a hospital, where the doctors did what they could to save him. This was not much; the question of his life lay with nature. He was so far gone as to be unconscious, and they finally left him, expecting that he would soon die.

Meanwhile the city was ringing with the sufferer's praise, and as the surgeons went out they were besieged with anxious inquiries regarding him, to which they could only respond with comfort. The unconscious hero lay in a stupor for hours, then groaned and opened his eyes. Near him sat a young girl who was evidently a nurse. "Is the city saved?" he cried, with as much vigor as he could command.

MANY DIE IN SNOW SLIDES.

"It is, and you are considered its savior."

The man closed his eyes again and fell back into unconsciousness. Six weeks later a ceremony was held at the palace. The sovereign gave an audience to the hero, who had recovered, at which a gold medal was to be presented him on one side of which was his name, on the other an inscription—"To the savior of the city." As the prince was about to bestow the honor the girl who had nursed the soldier back to life stepped forward from behind the throne and said:

"Sir, I ask the honor of pinning this medal on our hero's breast."

"It is granted," replied the prince. "You have been one of the most faithful of those ladies of our court who volunteered to nurse our soldiers."

As the girl attached the decoration it was plain to all present who saw the loveliness in the eyes of both her and the soldier that they were lovers. The young man by virtue of his heroism was permitted to spend some time with his former nurse, who he now discovered was a connection of the prince.

There is a great gulf fixed between royal and plebeian blood, and the couple knew that even the savior of a city could not aspire to the hand of a princess. But the young man was as daring in love as in war, and when the girl told him that separation from him would be far worse than death he said:

"Are you willing to resign your rank for me?"

"I am."

"Then go with me to that far country beyond the Atlantic, where those who would be free from our European injustices are making themselves new homes. There live unknown as a princess of the blood. But the new world is a barbarous country full of danger. Instead of the flattery of courtiers you will hear the war whoop of savages. Choose."

"I have chosen. I will go with you." When a few months later a plainly dressed bride descended from a ship and stepped on to the dock at Philadelphia those looking on were struck with the high born air that clung to her even in the wilds of America. The couple called themselves Wehrensteins, which was an assumed name. Nothing of the hero who had saved the city remained to the man; nothing of the princess remained to the woman, except a bearing neither could lay off. To the Quakers they were simply German immigrants who had come like most of the rest of the population, to escape either persecution for conscience's sake or to hide some disgrace. Since the Wehrensteins seemed to have no strong religious prejudices, the former view in their case for awhile remained, though it made no difference in the treatment they received. When some years after their arrival the man saved the inmates of a blockhouse from massacre by Indians he was considered a hero. But no one knew that he had saved a city.

As twenty-five miles are completely isolated. The damage may reach $1,000,000.

At the Camp Bird mine, which is four miles from the Camp Bird mill, a snow slide late Sunday evening completely isolated 50 or more miners employed there, and as the provision house was carried away, it is certain they are in urgent need of food. A party of two hundred miners started to the rescue yesterday.

The body of William J. Crossy, an Englishman, who lost his life in the slide at the Camp Bird mill, has been recovered.

WAR ON GYPSY MOTH.

Parasites Ready to Begin Their Summer Campaign.

Boston, March 20.—The Saugus parasites, which have been imported from Europe in some 100,000 brown-tail moth nests, have been wintering in Massachusetts, are reported to be thriving and ready for combat with the brown-tails and the gypsy moths of New England, by Dr. L. O. Howard, chief of the Bureau of Entomology of the Department of Agriculture, and Prof. E. G. S. Tins, both of whom came over from Washington to look into the present condition of the Saugus laboratory. One of the cases of nests were found thoroughly parasitized, numbers of primary parasites being found on the tiny caterpillars in the nest.

Dr. Howard will soon sail to Europe, where he will spend some arrangements for shipments of moths and parasites to prey upon the moth scourges of the state. He expresses great satisfaction with the condition and progress at Saugus and feels sure that the parasites will do a great deal toward making the brown-tail and gypsy moth ravages less terrible.

PLEADS GUILTY TO THEFTS

Maine Heiress to Stand Trial for Stealing at Smith

WAS TWO NIGHTS IN JAIL

Why Miss Wilson Robbed the Girls at the College Is a Mystery, for She Owns Property Inherited from Her Mother.

Northampton, Mass., March 20.—Miss Gilmore W. Wilson, who has been posing as a member of the freshman class of Smith College since last September, pleaded guilty in District Court yesterday morning to seven thefts from college students and was bound over to the June term of the Grand Jury. Her father, Attorney Frank Wilson, of Sanford, Me., was in court and went on her bond.

The thefts to which she pleaded guilty aggregated $100, but the names of students from whom the money and jewelry were stolen were not read in court and the clerk and college authorities refused to give them out. Most of the thefts were committed in the Chapin and Southworth houses, where Miss Wilson had many friends. In Miss Wilson's room at Orrin E. Livermore's house, 103 West street, were found numerous handkerchiefs, empty pocket books and pieces of jewelry, most of which have been claimed by students. Most of the girls have refused to make a complaint.

Miss Wilson, who is a handsome brunette about 20 years old, came to Northampton last September and took the entrance examination to Smith College. The college authorities say she failed to pass. At any rate her name at present is not on the college enrollment.

She went to board at 103 West street, which is a house much frequented by college students. She soon became a great favorite and was counted as one of the most generous girls in the college. She spent money lavishly, and gave theatre parties, straw rides and suppers to her friends. She was also popular with the young men and was frequently invited to social functions at Amherst College.

While she was at Amherst College on Saturday evening several of her friends had occasion to enter her room. Much to their surprise, they discovered articles which they had missed from their own rooms. Chief of Police Talbot was notified and on Miss Wilson's return from Amherst she was arrested.

She spent Saturday and Sunday nights in a cell in the Hampshire county jail.

Miss Wilson gave no explanation in court. She pleaded guilty and then left the court room. Her father said there was no reason why his daughter should have committed the thefts, as he had furnished her with a liberal supply of spending money. He supposed she was a student in good standing at college.

Miss Wilson explained to her friends recently that her eyes had been bothering her and that she was so badly conditioned in several of her studies that she was not in college temporarily.

The college authorities refuse to give a list of the thefts committed. It is customary for the students to leave their doors unlocked, and it is believed that many other thefts by Miss Wilson committed than those by her daughter. A woman detective from Boston spent several weeks in Northampton recently, following up clues. The arrest of a small boy followed, but he was responsible for only a few petty thefts.

SHOT IN HOTEL ROOM.

Killing in Chicago Causes a Scandal in Cincinnati.

Chicago, March 20.—The Chicago and Cincinnati authorities are puzzled by a mysterious shooting affray in the Grace Hotel early yesterday that cost the life of Nicholas Dickhoff, and exposed the dual life of the wife of a prominent Cincinnati maltster. Dickhoff was shot in the right temple and died at the Chicago Emergency hospital shortly before 6 o'clock after being unconscious for nearly four hours.

A Heavy Load to Carry.

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness and general debility. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be properly digested, and its products assimilated by the system.

The blood is charged with poisons which in turn this disordered digestion, and in turn the nerves are not fed on good, red blood, and we see symptoms of nervousness, sleeplessness and general breakdown. It is not head work, nor over physical exertion that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor, thin blood the body is not protected from the attacks of germs of grip, bronchitis and consumption. Fortify the body at once with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—a rare combination of native medicinal roots without a particle of alcohol or dangerous habit-forming drugs.

A little book of extracts, from prominent medical authorities endorsing every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will be mailed free to any address on request by postal card or letter. Address Dr. L. H. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Many years of active practice convinced Dr. Pierce of the value of many natural remedies as medicinal agents and he would not give up, both in time and in money, to perfect his own peculiar processes for rendering them both efficient and safe for use, alternative and rebuilding agents.

The enormous popularity of "Golden Medical Discovery" is due both to its scientific compounding and to the medicinal value of its ingredients. The publication of the names of the ingredients on the wrapper of every bottle sold, gives full assurance of its non-patented nature, and removes all objection to the use of an unknown or secret remedy. It is not a patent medicine nor a secret one either. This fact puts it in a class with the best of all remedies.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" cures, weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver and biliousness, alteration of stomach and bowels and all catarrhal affections of the digestive tract, and may be affected with it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original little liver pills first put out 40 years ago. They regulate the bowels, purify the liver and bowels. Much imitated but never equalled. Sugar-coated and easy to take as candy. Try to please a doctor.

Chicago Federation of Labor Declares War on Undertakers' Association.

Chicago, March 20.—The Chicago Federation of Labor has declared war on the Chicago Undertakers' Association, branding the body as a "trust of the worst order." The open declaration of hostility was made at yesterday's meeting of the Central Labor body.

After a lengthy discussion of the subject, three resolutions were arrived at by the delegates to the meeting: "No union man shall purchase a non-union casket, or assist in paying for a non-union casket, for a member of his family or a friend."

"When the services of an undertaker are needed by a friend of a union man it is his duty as a trades unionist to tell the members of the bereaved family how to secure a union casket."

"An investigation of the methods of acting as paid agents by the members of the Chicago Undertakers' Association shall be made at once, and ways and means of suppressing the trust found."

"It is understood that among the subjects to be discussed will be the controversy between the union printers and the typothetæ of the several cities. Whether or not the council will take up the questions now being considered in Indianapolis could not be ascertained."

CONDUCTED MODEL SALOON

Pittsburg Man Wouldn't Sell to Drunken Men Nor Allow Men Drink to Excess in His Place.

Pittsburg, Mo., March 20.—Frank Merkel, who ran a model saloon, is dead, aged 52 years. He was in the saloon business 25 years.

Merkel contended that the saloon was a necessary evil. His place in Southfield street was frequented by business men. The never was a fight there. If a drunken man entered he was refused drink and requested to leave. If he did not so he was ejected. If a man came in sober and drank so much that he was nearing intoxication, no more drinks would be sold to him. On Christmas, Fourth of July and other holidays Merkel closed his saloon. He believed men should spend their time with their families on such occasions.

Merkel started poor, but left a fortune of several hundred thousand dollars to his wife.

The time limit within which the property may be redeemed will expire April 2, and unless affirmative action is taken by the company before then the property will be sold by auction on that date. A special meeting of the stockholders has been called for March 27 to act on the question of redeeming the mortgages and rescuing the property. Whether enough funds can be raised to satisfy the claims and keep possession of the company's property cannot yet be told.

AGREEMENT AT HAND

London Confident of Morocco Settlement

BASIS TO BE AGREED UPON

France Will Yield on the Bank Issue and Germany Must Give Way Somewhat on the Police.

London, March 20.—The clouds which have been hanging over Algeria for the last week have practically disappeared and in the opinion of the Foreign Office the basis of an agreement on the Moroccan question will be reached at today's session of the conference. This agreement will be based on a modification of the German demands with respect to the police, while France will concede part of what she has been asking for in regard to the Moroccan bank system. The details will not be published until the meeting of the delegates, in fact France will not state what she is willing to concede until Germany has placed her cards on the table. The committee meetings at Algiers have been so harmonious that the Foreign Office here does not believe that a hitch is possible. Every detail has been discussed between Great Britain and France. The French ambassador, Paul Cambon, has been visiting the Foreign Office daily for ten days past.

Wood Says Troops Tried to Get Them From Stronghold Peacefully.

Washington, March 20.—Secretary Taft has received two cablegrams from Major-General Leonard Wood, at Manila, relative to the Mount Dajo fight. The first is dated Sunday, and reads as follows:

"If more detailed information concerning the facts connected with the Mount Dajo fight is desired, I suggest that Major Hugh L. Scott be called upon. He is thoroughly familiar with the situation, having spent eight months in the attempt to get these people off the mountain without fighting."

The second dispatch from Gen. Wood is dated Manila, yesterday, and reads as follows:

"Sensational cables sent to the United States relating to the Mount Dajo fight were made up in Manila. There has been no reference in any cable from Mindanao to the killing of women and children. On receipt of Col. Anderson's condensed report from our in Washington the American newspapers called for details. The reporters here had no other information than was contained in my report to Col. Anderson and supplied sensational features."

Privileges.

"How wealth any special privileges in this country?" asked the tourist.

"Certainly," answered the American citizen. "Wealth entitles a man to wear a silk hat every day in the week and also gives him a license for the use of light-colored gloves and side whiskers."
